OVERVIEW

In May of 2018, San Francisco legislation formalized the creation of a place-based program that recognizes community-defined areas as Cultural Districts. Subsequently in November, Proposition E passed by a 75% majority allocating approximately $3 million annually from the City’s Hotel Tax Fund to support the Cultural Districts’ efforts.

The Cultural Districts program is supported by an inter-departmental steering committee, including the Office of Economic and Workforce Development (OEWD), the Planning Department, the Arts Commission and the Mayor’s Office of Housing and Community Development (MOHCD). These Departments work together to streamline City and community partnerships to coordinate resources aimed at stabilizing these communities which face displacement.

Each legislated Cultural District maintains a community-based advisory board, dedicated staffing, and funding for its operations. Each District works toward their community-defined vision for self-determination while also building power across all Districts. The Cultural District’s collectively share policy strategies for strengthening community infrastructure.

The Cultural Districts legislation mandates that, in its first year, each district must create a "Cultural History, Housing and Economic Sustainability Strategies Report" (CHHESS) through a robust community engagement process. The CHHESS Report codifies the cultural legacy of the District, serves as a strategic policy plan, and ultimately is presented to the Board of Supervisors and approved by resolution. The CHHESS’s primary goal is to facilitate measurable outcomes for both City Departments and the Cultural Districts to work toward together.

While the CHHESS serves as a long-term institutional document, the changing realities we are all currently facing present both an urgency and an opportunity to pilot and put into practice some immediate strategies that have surfaced in the Cultural District’s community engagement efforts. During these times of change and transformation, we are deepening our commitment to community infrastructure and community social capital networks because we are stronger together.

Sincerely,

Brian Cheu, Director, Community Development
Julia Sabory, Cultural Districts Manager

Racial Equity

In partnership with city and community leaders, MOHCD seeks to advance opportunities and improve programmatic outcomes for Black, Brown and low-income residents. As such, we are assessing programs, contracts, and procurements to ensure they advance the city’s racial equity goals. We will be working closely with our partner organizations to monitor the impact of our investments. We will provide capacity building, clear information to partners organization, and create channels to give and receive feedback to ensure that all parties are aligned in the expectation to create an inclusive and equitable City where all residents have the opportunity to thrive.

Mayor Breed recently established the Office of Racial Equity with the goal of transforming systems to support the collective liberation of Black, Indigenous/American Indian, and People of Color in San Francisco. MOHCD and the Cultural Districts Program are aligned with this effort and are proud of the fact that the Cultural Districts legislation clearly states that its focus is to “support cultural communities and ethnic groups that historically have been discriminated against, displaced and oppressed”. We continue this commitment during these changing times and will continue to center our work on culturally responsive solutions developed by the people most impacted by social inequities.

This RFP’s Policy Framework

This RFP was developed through a robust research process by working with City and Community leaders to identify current challenges and new trends given the Pandemic, diving deeply into www.racialequitytools.org with a focus on their “COVID-19 - Racial Equity & Social Justice Resources”. Finally, each program area in this RFP is aligned with the Cultural Districts’ original legislative goals, activities and intent.

PROJECT AREAS

Each Cultural District is working to preserve, strengthen and promote their cultural communities. This RFP reinforces this purpose and is an opportunity to put into practice the strategies and themes that are surfacing in each District’s community engagement and CHHESS processes. The following are foundational policy strategies for the Cultural District Program-

- ⊕ Historic/Cultural Preservation
- ⊕ Tenant Protections
- ⊕ Arts & Culture
- ⊕ Economic & Workforce Development
- ⊕ Land Use
- ⊕ Cultural Competency
- ⊕ Crisis Response & Planning

We recognize that there is intersectionality in all community development work and each Cultural District should not feel limited to one policy or project area since many efforts are a combination of multiple lenses.

The following four project areas are intended to assist each proposal to weave together the Cultural District’s legislated policy strategies, above, along with the current pivotal landscape we are all experiencing.

I. CELEBRATING CULTURE

Historic & Cultural Preservation is one of the primary strategies of the Cultural Districts legislation with goals of celebrating and promoting each District’s culture.

Although we are in challenging times, we also face new opportunities and infinite possibility. The roles of community wisdom, culture and art have never been more important. Culture and art are often beacons that can help us see the light, both individually and collectively, encouraging both hope and awareness.

This project area is aimed at preserving the Cultural District’s community’s traditions, both tangible and intangible. All community and cultural activities must comply with the most recent Public Health guidelines.

PROJECT AREAS

2. COMMUNITY RESILIENCE

The promotion of culturally competent and culturally appropriate services and policies that encourage the health and safety of the community, culture, or ethnic group is explicitly called out as a key strategy within the Cultural Districts legislation.

Each Cultural District is responding to their community’s needs by supporting community awareness and coordinating resources while demands have grown exponentially. Supporting the community’s ability to shift in an ever-changing environment has presented new challenges.

This project area is aimed at ensuring that each District can rise to the new needs of their community by using culturally responsive strategies and building platforms for leveraging relationships and resources to respond to crises.

3. DIRECT SUPPORT

Tenant Protections are one of the primary strategies of the Cultural Districts legislation with the goals of preventing displacement, promoting affordable housing opportunities and home ownership.

Workforce Development is also called out in the legislations as a key solution to retain Cultural District’s residents and build equity within the neighborhood.

Communities of color and low-wage workers are at disproportionate risk of being adversely affected both by the coronavirus and the response to its spread. Given this reality, we must continue to focus in on racial equity and build toward a just and equitable recovery.

This project area focuses on providing relief and support directly to community members or programs to counteract current economic challenges. The pandemic is showing how interconnected we all are; however, some communities are bearing the brunt of this virus’s wrath and require dedicated intentional support.

4. PUBLIC REALM

Stabilizing and strengthening the identity of the District and the ability to generate a vibrant economy are goals that fall under the legislation’s Economic Sustainability and Development section.

Cultural Districts interpret this strategy to include various elements that make a vibrant economy possible- public safety, placemaking/place keeping, wayfinding, signage and programming that help people access and move through the whole Cultural District. The goals is to ensure that cultural legacy businesses and neighborhood roots are both stabilized and strengthened.

This project area is aimed to support economic sustainability and cultural identity of neighborhood corridors in new and creative ways.
